

TENNESSEE WORKERS' COMPENSATION
EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE 2024

More Than  Recovery

THE FUTURE OF WORKFORCE WELLNESS

Wednesday, June 12

Welcoming Comments and Bureau Updates

MIRABELLA F-J @ 1:00 - 1:30 PM | GENERAL SESSION

Presentation of Colors: Tennessee State Parks Honor Guard

Pledge of Allegiance: Ray Loveless, Workers' Compensation Specialist, Coverage Unit, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

National Anthem: Rhoberta Orsland, LaShawn Pender, Kyle Jones

Invocation: Marilyn Vaughn

Welcome: Troy Haley, Administrator, Bureau of Workers' Compensation
Deniece Thomas, Commissioner, Department of Labor & Workforce Development
Jeff Francis, Assistant Administrator, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

This session will serve to welcome all attendees, discuss recent developments within the Bureau and lay the groundwork for the three-day conference by introducing the issues and outlining the topics to be discussed in the days that follow. The Commissioner of the Department of Labor and Workforce Development will offer an update on the activities and future direction of the Department. The Administrator of the Bureau will offer a similar update on the issues he sees confronting the industry in the future.

From the Front Lines: The Realities of Claims Management Today

MIRABELLA F-J @ 1:30 - 2:30 PM | GENERAL SESSION

Introduction: Jeff Francis, Assistant Administrator, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenters: Bob Wilson, President, WorkCompCollege.com
Erik Pimentel, Territory Manager/Patient Advocate, Shamrock Prosthetics, Inc.
Ashley Roberts, Claims Manager, Cannon Cochran Management Services Inc. (CCMSI)

The impact that claims professionals have on injured people's lives can be enormous, and when things are done correctly, great outcomes can occur. But we never talk about that, do we? In this session, an injured worker who has been through the workers' compensation process and a seasoned claims professional will talk about their experiences and the critical nature of claims management today. They will discuss the positive impact claims professionals can have, and what can happen when things go off track. Ideas and solutions for industry limitations will be discussed, and attendees will be encouraged to "think outside the box" to create the best possible outcomes for all involved.

Legislative Update

MIRABELLA F-J @ 3:00 – 3:15 PM | GENERAL SESSION

Introduction: Claudia Byers, Director, Compliance Program, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Amanda Terry, Director of Legal Services, Legislative Liaison, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

In this presentation, the Bureau's Legislative Liaison will present all legislative changes related to workers' compensation that were made during the most recent session, provide the dates of implementation, and explain their impact on the current system. Changes include new requirements regarding filing First Reports of Injury, the Notice of Controversy and a requirement for self-insureds relative to an increase to their insurance company's cash reserves. She will also discuss the latest updates to Rules concerning the Medical Fee Schedule, Medical Impairment Rating (MIR) Registry, the Firefighter PTSD Grant Program and others.

Case Law Update

MIRABELLA F-J @ 3:15 – 4:30 PM | GENERAL SESSION

Introduction: April Verdoni,

Presenter: Fred Baker, Attorney, Wimberly, Lawson, Wright, Daves, & Jones

In 2013, Tennessee's workers' compensation law underwent fundamental reforms. As a result of those reforms, workers' compensation cases are now initially decided by the Court of Workers' Compensation Claims, and those decisions are appealed to the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board. In this session, attendees will learn about significant cases that have been decided in the last twelve months pursuant to the 2013 reforms, including how those cases may have changed the interpretation and application of the law, and will gain insight into what the participants in the workers' compensation system may expect as we move into the future.

Oral Arguments before the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board: Theralease Ridley v. Mature Care of Standifer Place, LLC, et al.

MIRABELLA F-J @ 8:00 - 9:00 AM | GENERAL SESSION

Introduction: Elizabeth Vines, Staff Attorney, Workers' Compensation Appeals Board

Call to Order: Matthew Keene, Acting Deputy Clerk, Workers' Compensation Appeals Board

Judicial Panel: Timothy W. Conner, Presiding Judge, Workers' Compensation Appeals Board
Pele L. Godkin, Judge, Workers' Compensation Appeals Board
Meredith B. Weaver, Judge, Workers' Compensation Appeals Board

Representing the Appellant: Connor R. Sestak, Partner, Morgan, Akins & Jackson

Representing the Appellee: Michael A. Wagner, Partner, Wagner & Wagner

In this session, the Tennessee Workers' Compensation Appeals Board, which hears appeals from orders issued by the Court of Workers' Compensation Claims, will conduct an actual oral argument in the matter of Theralease Ridley v. mature Care of Standifer Place, LLC, et al.

Conference attendees will be able to attend and observe attorneys presenting their legal arguments to the Board and will see the interactions between the judges and the attorneys, including questions presented to the attorneys by the judges.

In Ridley v. Mature Care of Standifer Place, the Appeals Board will be asked to address issues concerning the presumption of correctness afforded to the causation opinion of an authorized treating physician and the aggravation of a pre-existing condition. Ms. Ridley was working as a certified nursing assistant when she reported back pain related to her duties in patient care. Objective testing revealed degenerative conditions in Ms. Ridley's back, and the authorized physician ultimately opined that Ms. Ridley's condition did not arise primarily out of her employment. Ms. Ridley sought a different physician's opinion on her own, and that physician opined that her condition is causally related to her employment. Ms. Ridley, in the meantime, moved, and she requested a new panel of physicians in her new locality. The employer denied that request on the basis that her complaints and need for treatment are not causally related to her employment. The Court of Workers' Compensation Claims concluded that Ms. Ridley's physician's opinion rebutted the presumption of correctness afforded to the causation opinion of the authorized treating physician and ordered the employer to provide a panel of physicians in Ms. Ridley's new location. Mature Care of Standifer Place appealed, raising as issues whether the trial court erred in finding Ms. Ridley's complaints and need for medical treatment to be primarily caused by the work incident, whether Ms. Ridley suffered a compensable aggravation of a pre-existing condition, whether she is entitled to a new panel of physicians, and whether the authorized physician's opinion was rebutted.

Navigating Challenging Conversations: The Pushback, Lack of Understanding and Defensiveness

MIRABELLA F-J @ 9:30 - 10:30 AM | KEYNOTE SESSION

Introduction: Matthew Salyer, Program Coordinator, Information Services, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Hilary Blair, MFA, CSP, CEO and Co-Owner ARTiculate: Real & Clear

Navigating challenging conversations can be a daunting task, but it doesn't have to leave you feeling defeated or discouraged. In fact, with the right tools and a strategic mindset, these conversations can become opportunities for growth, understanding and resolution.

Key learning Objectives:

1. Move toward resolution without heightened conflict.
2. Communicate successfully with differing perspectives.
3. Activate Relationship vs. siloing in conversation.

Instead of shying away, you can consider challenging conversations as avenues for constructive change. We want to foster understanding, explore solutions and ultimately find common ground or resolution. It can transform confrontations into opportunities for productive dialogue and mutual success. The group will practice tools and techniques that support their client and employee interactions.

Worker Memorial

MIRABELLA F-J @ 10:30 – 10:45 AM | GENERAL SESSION

Introduction: Susie Morgan, Administrative Assistant 3, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

On April 28, 1970, Congress passed the Occupational Safety and Health Act which established OSHA. It was signed into law by President Richard Nixon on December 29, 1970, promising workers the right to a safe and healthful workplace. In the 47 years since, workplaces have evolved, and more jobs fall outside the traditional nine to five timeslots. And fatality rates have fallen. It is estimated by the USDOL that some 14,000 workers were killed on the job in 1970. That number fell to 4,340 in 2009 even though the nation's workforce doubled. However, workplace hazards remain, and fatalities still occur.

This session will raise awareness about the need to strengthen our commitment to make jobs safer and will honor those Tennessee workers killed at work from May 1, 2023, through April 30, 2024. Other sessions in the conference will highlight the preventable nature of most workplace accidents and illnesses.

TRAUMA—Is it Possible to Unlock the Power of the Brain with Virtual Reality?

MIRABELLA F-J @ 11:15 – 12:15 PM | KEYNOTE SESSION

Introduction: Tim Kellum, Associate Counsel, Subsequent Injury Fund, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Gerry Stanley, M.D., P-CEO Harvard MedTech

The notion that virtual reality can be used to unlock and retrain the brain seems like science fiction, but the future has arrived. The Chief Medical Officer of the nation's leading digital therapeutics company will discuss this concept and explain how virtual reality unlocks the healing potential of the human brain and how we see this science played out in our daily lives. Dr. Stanley will focus on how injured workers experience trauma and how the healing potential of virtual reality allows the entire care team to active a bio-psycho-social model of healthcare delivery. Attendees will enjoy this high energy and fun presentation and leave with powerful insights into the world around them and how to apply the science of the future – today.

Course Objectives:

- Understand the difference between virtual reality (VR) and virtual reality therapy (Vx).
- Understand the symptoms of trauma and how injured workers present with them.
- Understand what neuroplasticity is and how it can heal injured workers.

Lunch (Provided)

12:30 – 1:45 PM @ OAKLEIGH BALLROOM OR GATEWAY GRILLE (HOTEL RESTAURANT)

The Sue Ann Head Award winner will be announced in the Oakleigh Ballroom location during lunch. Or, if you prefer talking with friends or catching up on emails, the same buffet will also be available to enjoy in the Gateway Grille.

Keynote Session:

AI, ML, Generative AI, Predictive Analytics: What are they and how can they help?

MIRABELLA F-J @ 1:30 – 2:30 PM | KEYNOTE SESSION

Introduction: Kyle Jones, Communications Coordinator, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Kimberly A. Wiswell, CMSP-Fellow, Director, Client Services, Embedded Analytics, Gradient AI

Artificial intelligence, or AI, is designed to assist with decision-making when the variables involved exceed the abilities of human comprehension. Essentially, this is accomplished by recognizing patterns in the underlying data. Join us as we delve into the world of artificial intelligence, machine learning (ML), predictive analytics, and generative AI, with an emphasis on how analytics can assist all parties involved in the workers' compensation claims process, including claims adjusters, attorneys, nurse case managers, risk managers and more.

We'll discuss the benefits of knowing which claims are likely to be high cost and need special handling, which are likely to have a surgery or other major procedure in their future, which are likely to be litigated, discernible treatment patterns, and which may need other services to achieve the best outcome. More importantly, we'll talk about what to do with this knowledge, including operationalizing actions to deal with these findings.

Finally, and key to success in this area, we'll talk about the data sources needed to drive your AI/ML solutions, where they might be obtained, how the accuracy and completeness of the data impacts the analytics, and the value of using data from other payers and third-party sources.

Takeaways:

- Understanding of the basics of AI/ML and the role of artificial intelligence and predictive analytics in workers' compensation.
- Understanding the data needed to drive AI to achieve reliable outcomes.
- Understanding the best ways to operationalize AI findings to benefit from these solutions.
- Understanding the current generative AI wave and what it can and cannot reliably do for you.

OAKLEIGH @ 3:00 - 4:00 PM

Introduction: Brittany Garcia, Compliance Specialist 1, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Anastasia Settle, R.N., C.C.M., Case Management Liaison, Carlisle Medical

This is a one-hour Ethics session focusing on ethical behavior and bias. In an amusing way, it teases out the most frequent kinds of bias, discusses why we have bias, and teaches the participant to recognize and respond to both internal and external bias. This session aims to address how Case Managers and Adjusters can increase their ability to:

- Respect the rights and inherent dignity of their clients,
- Maintain objectivity in their relationships with clients, and
- Act with integrity and fidelity with clients and others.

Learning Objectives:

Attendees will be able to:

- 1) Identify how and why bias exists.
- 2) Understand the most common types of bias.
- 3) Gain guidance on how to evaluate and assess their own biases.

Take-aways from this course include tools on how to improve objectivity.

Handling Claims with Self-Represented Claimants

MIRABELLA F @ 8:00 – 9:00 AM

Introduction: James “Jay” Hicks, Assistant Counsel, Ombudsman Attorney, Bureau of Workers’ Compensation

Presenter: James V. Thompson, Rainey, Member, Kizer, Reviere & Bell, PLC

Successful handling of claims with self-represented (unrepresented or “pro se”) claimants is the goal of all interested parties in the workers’ compensation system. We strive to ensure that all parties are treated fairly and that the law is upheld in letter and in spirit. However, particular challenges in working with self-represented claimants can and often arise for the courts, mediators and Bureau staff, claims representatives, and defense counsel. Providing contact information and general claim notices are a starting point, but deeper conversations on the medical treatment process, disability benefits calculations, and the potential impact on the claimant’s future employment can soon arise—and that’s assuming no disputed issue (e.g., causation, impairment, treatment approvals) are triggered. Communications logistics and a lack of relationship between the claimant and the other involved players can also compound problems.

The objectives of this presentation are:

- To review the rules, regulations and other points of law on required communications with self-represented claimants.
- Address roadblocks to successful claim resolution due to the claimant’s self-represented status; and
- Discuss practical solutions for claims representatives, counsel, mediators, and the Court to explain and work through the claims process under relevant workers’ compensation law.

This presentation will address:

- Rules on required and prohibited communications for claims representatives and counsel to self-represented claimants.
- Questions on explaining the law and claims process, versus offering legal advice, through various stages of the claim process.
- The Bureau mediator’s role in engaging the parties to assist in gathering information, understanding the disputed issues, and evaluating the claim overall.
- The Workers’ Compensation Court’s role in hearing and responding to presentations from self-represented claimants.
- Practical discussions on communication logistics with self-represented claimants; and
- Engaging assistance from other resources (local employer contacts, ombudsman’s office, etc.).

Empathy, Encouragement & Empowerment

MIRABELLA G-J @ 8:00 – 9:00 AM

Introduction: TBD

Presenter: Keven Wilberding, Vice President, Ambassador Service Group

Session attendees will have the opportunity to delve into the crucial aspects of empathy, encouragement, and empowerment in the realm of managing workers' compensation claims. The presentation will illuminate the fine line between empathy and sympathy, allowing participants to grasp the nuanced differences and understand the significance and value of genuine empathy in the workplace. Through interactive discussions, attendees will explore the imperative of displaying empathy in the context of workers' compensation claims, recognizing its pivotal role in fostering trust, communication, and ultimately, successful outcomes.

Moreover, the session will shed light on the potential challenges associated with excessive empathy, equipping attendees with strategies to navigate these obstacles effectively. By addressing common pitfalls and offering practical solutions, participants will gain insights into striking the delicate balance between empathy and professionalism. Additionally, the presentation will emphasize how empathy, when coupled with encouragement and empowerment, can serve as powerful catalysts for success in handling workers' compensation claims. By harnessing these tools, attendees will be empowered to cultivate supportive environments, facilitate collaboration, and ultimately drive positive change within their organizations, leading to more efficient and compassionate management of workers' compensation cases.

Workers' Comp 101

CAMBRIDGE AB @ 9:15 – 10:15 AM

Introduction: Jamie Ballou, eLearning Coordinator, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Jeff Francis, Assistant Administrator, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Hon. Pamela Johnson, Judge, Court of Workers' Compensation Claims

Hon. Josh Baker, Judge, Court of Workers' Compensation Claims

What do you think immediately comes to mind for most when they hear the words "workers' compensation"? It's "compensation" right? Because that means money. What if workers' compensation had been known as "workers' recovery" from the beginning? How would expectations have changed? How might outcomes have changed?

It isn't too late. You can have a culture of recovery rather than a culture of compensation at your worksite by following a few simple steps that will be discussed in this presentation.

Attendees at this presentation should expect to learn:

- Ways to improve the workplace culture, reduce or eliminate workplace injuries and save money.
- Ways to turn a workers' compensation claim into a workers' recovery plan.
- Ways that employers may be negatively influencing their workplace culture regarding workplace injuries.
- The impact that a workplace culture has on the cost and length of recovery in workplace injuries.
- The major statutory requirements of the current Tennessee workers' compensation laws that are important for all stakeholders to know.
- The Bureau Rules that help create a positive workplace culture that include:
 - How long employees have to report an injury.
 - When and how to put together a panel of physicians.
 - When should employers report a claim to their insurance carrier.

Exploring Alternative Treatments in Workers' Comp Injuries—A Focus on Dry Needling and Therapy Dogs

OAKLEIGH @ 8:00 – 9:00 AM

Introduction: Dr. Jeffrey Hazlewood, Board Certified in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, subspecialty Board Certification in Pain Medicine

Presenter: Jason Barclay, PT, CSCS, COMPT, CIDN, Astym-Cert, Regional Director, STAR
Physical Therapy
George and Tammy Kilgore, Kilgore Family Trainers
Judy, Certified Therapy Dog

In this presentation, we will explore two unconventional yet effective methods: dry needling and the utilization of therapy dogs.

Dry needling, a western form of acupuncture approved by ODG in certain conditions and a technique gaining popularity in the realm of physical therapy, involves the insertion of thin needles into specific trigger points in muscles, tendons, ligaments, or near nerves to alleviate pain and improve musculoskeletal function. This session will provide insights into the principles behind dry needling, its application in treating work-related injuries, and its potential benefits for injured workers in the context of workers' compensation claims.

Additionally, we will “shed” light on the therapeutic benefits of incorporating specially trained therapy dogs into the rehabilitation process of injured workers. These furry companions offer emotional support, reduce stress and anxiety, and promote physical activity, all of which are crucial elements in the recovery journey of individuals navigating workplace injuries.

Attendees can expect to gain a comprehensive understanding of these alternative treatments, including their efficacy, safety considerations, regulatory landscape, and practical implementation within the framework of workers' compensation claims. Furthermore, we will discuss strategies for integrating these modalities into existing rehabilitation programs, fostering collaboration between healthcare providers, employers, and insurers to optimize outcomes for injured workers.

Whether you're a claims adjuster, healthcare provider, employer representative, or legal professional involved in workers' compensation, this session offers invaluable insights into innovative approaches that have the potential to transform the landscape of injury rehabilitation and support within the workplace. Join us as we explore the intersection of alternative therapies and workers' compensation, paving the way for improved outcomes and enhanced quality of life for injured workers.

Professionalism in the Courts

MIRABELLA F @ 9:15 – 10:15 AM

Introduction: Hon. Timothy W. Conner, Presiding Judge, Bureau of Workers' Compensation
Presenter: Hon. Dwight Tarwater, Justice, Tennessee Supreme Court

Join Tennessee Supreme Court Justice Dwight Tarwater for an enlightening session where legal professionals will delve into the intricacies of professional obligations in the field. With Justice Tarwater's extensive expertise and esteemed reputation in the legal arena, attendees can expect a comprehensive exploration of the ethical responsibilities inherent to both lawyers and judges operating within the realm of workers' compensation law.

Throughout the session, Justice Tarwater will navigate attendees through nuanced scenarios and case studies, shedding light on the ethical dilemmas often encountered in practice. From conflicts of interest to impartiality in decision-making, participants will gain invaluable insights into navigating the ethical landscape of workers' compensation litigation. By examining real-world examples and drawing upon Justice Tarwater's wealth of experience on the bench, attendees will leave equipped with a deeper understanding of their professional obligations and ethical duties, ensuring they uphold the highest standards of integrity and professionalism in their legal practice.

This session promises to be an essential cornerstone for legal professionals enhancing their ethical framework in the field of workers' compensation law.

Work Conditioning: Proper Orders and Realistic Expectations

MIRABELLA G-J @ 9:15 – 10:15 AM

Introduction: Marion White, NextStep Program, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Dan Headrick, PT, CEAS III, CETS, Astym, MA, Star Physical Therapy

This presentation, delivered by a seasoned physical therapist, promises to be an enlightening and practical session for professionals seeking to deepen their understanding of rehabilitation within the context of occupational injuries. The session aims to explore the pivotal role of work conditioning programs in facilitating the safe and efficient return of injured workers to their pre-injury employment status.

Attendees can anticipate an in-depth examination of the core principles and methodologies underpinning work conditioning interventions. The presenter will delve into the assessment criteria used to identify candidates for such programs, emphasizing the importance of a comprehensive evaluation encompassing functional capacity, job demands, and individualized rehabilitation goals. Attendees will gain insights into the design and implementation of work conditioning protocols tailored to address specific job-related tasks and ergonomic considerations.

Moreover, the presentation will underscore the interdisciplinary nature of work conditioning, highlighting the collaborative efforts between physical therapists, occupational therapists, physicians, and employers in optimizing outcomes for injured workers.

Learning Objectives:

- Identifying proper orders for Work Conditioning
- Listing at least three benefits of a work conditioning program
- Citing the differences between work conditioning and work hardening
- Identifying realistic expectations of Work Conditioning

Ultimately, participants will leave the session equipped with practical strategies and evidence-based approaches to enhance their practice and promote the holistic rehabilitation of injured workers, thereby fostering improved functional outcomes and mitigating long-term disability risks.

Ethics—A Moral Imperative

CAMBRIDGE AB @ 9:15 – 10:15 AM

Introduction: Amy Harmon, Mediation Specialist, Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Presenter: Patsy Nickle, V.P. of Education & Business Resource Development, Safehaven

This presentation will show what a tightrope case managers and adjusters walk when trying to decide the best treatment for a patient and still seeing the cost saving side of companies who must pay for the treatment. Case Managers must use the guidelines of the Universal Ethical Principles and those guiding the practice of Case Management when making these decisions. The speaker will explain those principles in detail.

For the adjusters who pay those requests, it will help them explain why the case manager is asking for a treatment and what cost benefit it will be. Then the discussion will delve into the side of the payor source, the insurance company, their outlook on the treatment plan.

A large part of the presentation will deal with how Case Managers should treat, speak to, or introduce themselves when first assigned the case. It also gives information as to what the patient may be feeling and if they trust the Case Manager or the adjuster. It makes a huge difference when the tone is well set.

Learning Objectives:

- Define common terms used in workers' comp, and how they relate to patient advocacy.
- Discuss the importance of trust.
- Discuss the balancing act of appropriate treatment and cost savings issues.
- Discuss the conflicts of personal values and business values.

Julie Reasonover, Founder, Reasonover Law Firm

David Deming, Principal, Manier & Herod

David Drobny, Principal, Manier & Herod

Jonathan May, Attorney, Morgan & Morgan

The “band” is getting back together, although with a couple of new bandmembers! This presentation will have a “talk show” format and feel and will include an esteemed panel of attorneys representing the Defense side/perspective and the Plaintiff's side/perspective. The goal of the presentation is to walk the attendees through the life of a Workers' Compensation Claim from the very beginning of the claim with the focus on moving the claim forward towards a reasonable and final conclusion in a timely fashion, but we plan to take a deeper dive this year into some complicated issues such as “Work from Home”, “Death Claims”, and other advanced topics. Topics to be discussed will include:

- Beginning of the claim, Recorded statement, documents to be sent to the injured worker
- Claims investigations and decisions on compensability
- Work from Home questions on compensability
- Panel requirements and the Telehealth option
- Denial of claims, filing Notice of Denial, C23 Form
- Wage statement and average weekly wage calculations- when are weeks included? What constitutes earnings?
- TTD/TPD benefits
- The Ombudsman Program
- Settlement of Initial Benefits
- Enhanced Benefits – how do we calculate?
- Penalties
- Why would an Employer be referred for penalties?
 - When would Plaintiff's counsel be referred for penalties?
 - What are grounds for referral?
 - Who decides if penalties are appropriate?
 - What is the dollar range of penalties assessed?
- Death Benefits
- What do you do when claims are reassigned?
- How to avoid a Workers' Compensation Claim turning into an EEOC charge and/or protracted Employment litigation

Gerry Stanley, M.D., P-CEO

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT & CHIEF MEDICAL OFFICER AT HARVARD MEDTECH

Gerry Stanley, M.D., is an accomplished third-generation family doctor, speaker, author, and catalyst for change in the workers compensation industry. With a passion for healthcare transformation, Dr. Stanley has spoken and presented extensively on the topic of healthcare IT, population health management, self-insured health plan management, and medical consumerism and direct to employer network enablement.

His visionary perspective on the opportunity to find a solution for the growing opioid epidemic and mental health crisis by creating a resource for clinicians to treat patients holistically is what he describes as a “once in a lifetime opportunity to solve a societal need.” As the Senior Vice President and Chief Medical Officer for Harvard MedTech, his belief that a collaborative approach and strong foundational understanding of health care delivery, health systems, insurance brokers/consultants, and self-insured employers is critical to scale health plans and achieve the quadruple AIM of healthcare. Considered by many, an industry disruptor, his upcoming book entitled “The Innovation Equation” provides a framework for safe and effective innovation and effective cross organization communication to foster a culture of change.

Most recently, Dr. Stanley served as the Chief Medical Officer for the Employer and Consumer division of Cerner, where he was able to put into play his unique ability to identify market specific opportunities for development, stabilization, and growth. This included developing a value-based care and population health strategy for critical access hospitals, community hospitals, and a framework for health plan development for integrated delivery networks. While at Cerner, he also had the responsibility for Cerner’s national system on on-site and near-site health centers/pharmacies/occupational centers serving self-insured employers, care coordination teams, a national team of corporate wellness strategists, an analytics division, a third-party administrator (TPA), and the self-insured and direct-to-employer insurance strategies for Cerner clients.

Dr. Stanley received his undergraduate degree from Creighton University studying Classical and Near Eastern Civilizations where he graduated magna cum laude. He then attended the Creighton University School of Medicine where he served as class president for three years and graduated with clinical honors and received the university’s highest honor, the Spirit of Creighton Award. Upon graduation he completed his residency at the Northern Colorado Family Medicine Program with a focus on rural and surgical family medicine where he served as the chief resident. He practiced medicine for over 10 years in a variety of practice settings with group/hospital leadership positions before attending the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University and graduated from the Physician CEO program.

Hon. Dwight E. Tarwater

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE FOR THE STATE OF TENNESSEE

Dwight E. Tarwater was confirmed by the General Assembly in 2023 as the newest justice on the Tennessee Supreme Court. Justice Tarwater was nominated by Governor Bill Lee.

Justice Tarwater was born and raised in Knoxville. He earned a B.A. in political science from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. He was named a Torchbearer, the University’s highest honor, recognizing excellence in academics, leadership and service. He earned his law degree from his alma mater.

After working as a judicial law clerk for Judge Houston M. Goddard of the Tennessee Court of Appeals, Eastern Section in Knoxville, Justice Tarwater joined the law firm Egerton, McAfee, Armistead and Davis and four short years later was named a partner. Three years later, his name was on the door at Paine Tarwater Bickers LLP. He was invested in the Knoxville legal community, serving in almost every leadership position possible at the Knoxville Bar Association.

Justice Tarwater developed a national reputation in handling complex litigation cases. He has managed hundreds of complex cases at the trial and appellate levels in both federal and state courts and has developed a particular talent for legal discovery, expert testimony, and jury trials. As a result, he has handled cases in all three Grand Divisions of Tennessee and more than 20 states.

In 2006, Justice Tarwater was inducted into the American College of Trial Lawyers, which is comprised of the best trial lawyers in the United States and Canada. He has repeatedly been recognized as one of the Best Lawyers in America, which is compiled through a peer review survey of thousands of lawyers.

From 2014 to 2019, Justice Tarwater served as general counsel to former Governor Bill Haslam. The job of general counsel to the governor is broad and all encompassing. From reviewing every legal document the governor signs to analyzing proposed legislation, the position handles a multitude of legal, political and governmental issues. Justice Tarwater proposed reform measures in criminal justice, juvenile justice, law enforcement, and drug treatment as well as advised the Governor on criminal law issues involving defendants, such as extraditions, sentencing, and clemency requests, including those in capital cases.

Recognizing the impact even modest legal guidance can have on an individual person, Justice Tarwater has consistently accepted cases pro bono from Legal Aid of East Tennessee as well as accepted other cases at reduced fees.

Justice Tarwater served on the board of directors of LAET, the Volunteer Legal Assistance Program and the Pro Bono Project.
